History of Fox Hills Resort

Mishicot, where Fox Hills Resort is located, is an Ottawa Indian name for, "A place of shelter."

Fox Hills started in 1964 when Mr. Florenz Baugniet (Bun-yeah), a local mink rancher, decided to open a 9-hole golf course with a supper club, lounge, and small pro shop.

→ In 1972 the Fox Creek Golf Course was expanded to 27 holes of golf and a 52-room lodge with indoor pool, saunas and whirlpool were added to the resort.

In 1973 the hotel resort lobby and another 52 rooms were added.

By 1981 another 56 rooms had been built.

In 1983 a 20,000 square foot conference center and ballroom capable of accommodating up to 800 people was added as well as a full service health and fitness club.

In 1984 Fox Hills began developing and marketing Timeshare Vacation Villas. Red, white, and blue weeks were sold from efficiency size units all the way up to 4 bedroom luxury villas.

There are a total of 234 vacation units. The entire resort consists of 750 acres of land.

In 1988 the National Golf Course was opened for play and is regarded as the third most challenging course in Wisconsin.

As a result of the demand for the condos, a recreation center with indoor and outdoor pools and whirlpool was built.

We are now in the age of cell phones and e-mail and possess the technology to make our lives easier. However, we still insist on living our lives at breakneck speeds.

More so now, than any other time in our history, the consumer is more knowledgeable and is more demanding of the products they purchase.

In 2002 Fox Hills converted from outdated conventional timeshare vacation ownership to the current more modern and easy to use RCI Points reservation system. Over the years the vacationing public has become much more demanding and requires greater flexibility.

Living in a fast paced world, we all need to take a moment to simply kick back and relax (perhaps even be pampered). We need to reduce stress in our lives and spend some quality time with our families even if it is only for brief periods at a time. We all need to recharge and regroup and that is what Fox Hills Resort is all about.
